*In general terms, unless there are good reasons for doing otherwise, where it is intended to employ a person for a number of years (e.g. 3 years), and where funds are available for that period, it is preferable to issue a contract for the full period, rather than, for example, issuing an initial contract for one year with two subsequent yearly renewals. Issues relating to suitability of contract employees, are best dealt with under the normal six-month probationary period provided for in contracts of employment.

Is the person to be employed already employed by Maynooth University?

Yes: ____ No: ____

If Yes, please provide the following details:

1. Employee staff number: _____

2. State:

a. The objective grounds justifying the renewal of the fixed-term contract and

b. The objective grounds justifying failure to offer a contract of indefinite duration

It is important that you advise the Research Development Office (Finance), without delay, and at least three weeks prior to the date of the proposed renewal, of the details of any contract that you wish to have renewed. At least three weeks' notice must also be given in respect of a proposed first appointment.

Please note that if a fixed-term employee was employed by the University prior to 14 July 2003 and has completed three years continuing employment, the contract may be renewed only once and for a fixed term of not longer than one year, unless there are objective reasons for doing so. Please also note that where an employee of the University is employed on or after 15 July 2003, on two or more continuous fixed-term contracts, the aggregate duration of those contracts may not exceed four years, unless there are objective reasons for doing so. In circumstances where these terms are exceeded, in the absence of objective grounds, the relevant contract becomes one of indefinite duration.

A ground will be considered as an objective ground if it is based on considerations other than the status of the employee as a fixed-term employee and the less favourable treatment is for the purpose of achieving a legitimate objective of the University and is necessary for that purpose.
