

Initiative to Support, Promote and Integrate Researchers at Risk in Europe

Inspireurope

Supporting Researchers at Risk

Background

When researchers are at risk, and excluded from participating in the global research circuit, whether due to discrimination, persecution or violence, not only are individual lives and careers at risk – the very future of research is also at stake. Inspireurope promotes cooperation across Europe in support of researchers at risk.

Inspireurope Actions

- Builds a cross-sectoral, European support structure
- Contributes to informed policymaking across Europe to strengthen support
- Bridges the gaps between national and European support mechanisms
- Provides career development opportunities for researchers at risk
- Prepares the work environment in academic and non-academic sectors
- Grows the network of actors supporting researchers at risk

How to get involved

- Participate in Inspireurope consultation processes
- Join webinars and trainings
- Join Annual Stakeholder Fora in Paris & Berlin
- Join regional outreach workshops in Greece & Poland
- Join the Inspireurope mailing list

Inspireurope is coordinated by Maynooth University, Ireland, host of Scholars at Risk Europe.
