SELECTED HIGHLIGHTS 2013-2014

- Major, internationally benchmarked, Library user satisfaction survey carried out with very positive results.
- Acquisition of a number of important research collections including the Pearse Hutchinson Archive and the St. Canice’s Cathedral collection
- Launch of a number of publications including the open access Journal of Mediation and Applied Conflict Analysis and the book Silence Would be Treason: Last Writings of Ken Saro-Wiwa
- Summon Discovery Tool implemented to enhance access to library collections
- A vibrant exhibition programme including collaborative projects with academic departments and national agencies and the introduction of student-led exhibitions with Images of Liberian Women and Welcome to the Caribbean
- A 25% increase in the number of PCs available to users
- CALM archival management system implemented resulting in faster and more accessible collection processing
- KnowAll Enquire enquiry management tool implemented enabling the rapid referral of queries to relevant staff/units and the efficient collection of query data
- More than €2,000 raised for a range of causes including Irish Leprosy Mission (to combat Ebola in Liberia and Sierra Leone), St. Vincent De Paul and Syrian refugees
- Staff members awarded first and joint second prizes in national library blogging competition
- Staff member awarded Education Doctorate with a focus on Information Literacy
- Two staff members awarded Associateship and a further staff member awarded Fellowship of the Library Association of Ireland
- Integration of the Froebel collection into the library’s collections
OVERVIEW 2013-2014

This annual report covers the period 1 October 2013 to 30 September 2014.

This was another busy and successful reporting period. Some of the many highlights included the launch of “Silence Would be Treason: Last Writings of Ken Saro-Wiwa” a book based on the death-row correspondence of Ken Saro-Wiwa. The acquisition of the Pearse Hutchinson and St. Canice’s Cathedral Archives and the visit of President Michael D. Higgins to the Library, were other major achievements in line with the Library’s drive to grow our research collections.

Our new building has made it possible to welcome many more people to events and it is wonderful to see the level of interest demonstrated by the local, national and international community. The last five years has seen a 280% increase in the number of events hosted in the Library, many of which are collaborations with university departments, community groups and external bodies. These are listed in appendix I.

Our LibQUAL+ survey – carried out in March 2014 – benchmarked MU library against other university libraries and demonstrated that the Library is performing better than, or equal to peer Libraries in all areas and continues to deliver an excellent service all services areas. Moreover, progress since 2010 – when our first LibQUAL+ survey was carried out - has been substantial and the collection of increasing amounts of data will enable the Library to adopt an even more targeted approach to continuous service enhancement in the future.

Staff continued to perform at an extremely high level both within the Library and nationally and internationally with a strong record of publications, conference papers and awards. Appendix II gives details of the very extensive staff professional activity.

During the reporting period some significant University initiatives with implications for the library commenced including the review of the Curriculum and changes to the structures of research institutes. The Library looks forward to playing our part in realising the University’s ambitions in teaching and research.

I am grateful to the Library staff for their continued professionalism and enthusiasm in delivering a very high quality service. The Library is grateful to the campus community for their continued support and assistance which is at the core of the Library’s continued success. Finally, in August 2014 Senior Librarian Mary Delaney (Antonesa) was appointed the Institute Librarian at Carlow IT. Mary played a key role in many innovations including the delivery of the new library building. While we were disappointed to see Mary leave, we wish her the very best in her new post.

1 LIBRARY ENVIRONMENT

The new library continues to be a popular venue for staff, students and the local community as illustrated in figure 1.

It should also be noted that the figure is actually far higher as entries to the foyer and adjoining areas are not recorded and quite a large number of users do not go beyond the foyer. We are currently exploring ways to accurately measure footfall in the foyer and cafe area. This is likely to involve installing a footfall counter on top of the revolving door to measure all entries and compare this to access gate figures, in order to measure total levels of access.

Towards the end of the reporting period it emerged that the Library will proceed with finishing works and refurbishment works on the building and the upper two western floors following the Universities success discussions with the European Investment Bank (EIB). The EIB team visited the new library as part of the process and remarked on the many qualities of the building.

The success and footfall in the library has meant that the maintenance demands have increased. This problem has been exacerbated by the comparatively complex and sophisticated nature of many of the building’s features e.g. extensive automation. The library is working closely with the powerhouse, campus services, campus planning and other areas to ensure that this challenge is successfully addressed.

While the new library extension and other planned works will mean that the library environment in the John Paul II library will be world class, serious issues remain unaddressed in other library locations. The Russell library requires significant investment to address issues relating to health and safety and accessibility. The Kildare Store is wholly unfit for purpose (storing low use/unprocessed collections) and suffered a number of moderately serious issues during the reporting period. The Library will continue to advocate for both of these important issues to be addressed.
2 SUPPORTING LEARNING AND TEACHING

2.1 Borrowing Services
The Library continues to streamline as many transactions as possible in order to free up Information Desk staff to provide a high level information and reference service from the desk. This is reflected in our circulation statistics for the reporting period, where the overall number of loans reduced while total number of self-service transactions (loans and returns) increased by 14% - from 151,141 to 171,895; shelving increased slightly - by 2% -from 162,485 to 166,533 items.

2.2 Desk Services
The Library has two main service points: the Admission Desk and the Information Desk. In the 2013/2014 academic year staff dealt with a combined total of 46,417 queries at both the information and admission desks.

2.3 Information Desk
Desk staff dealt with 29,748 queries, an increase of 4% on the previous period. 89% (26,484) of queries were dealt with face-to-face, 5% (1465) by online chat, 2% (750) by phone, 2% (466) by online form and 2% (583) by e-mail. The following graph illustrates types of queries.

2.4 Admission Desk
A total of 16,669 enquiries were recorded for the Admission Desk, an 11% increase on the figure of 15,078 for the previous reporting period.

2.5 LibQUAL+
In March 2014, the Library carried out its second LibQual+ survey. The first LibQUAL+ survey was carried out in 2010 and had 603 respondents. The 2014 survey had more than double the respondents at 1286. The results from the LibQUAL+ 2014 survey show a marked improvement in overall satisfaction with Library services. In 2010, there were many areas that fell below the minimum level expected by library users. The 2014 survey shows that the majority of services are now within the ‘zone of tolerance’, i.e. exceeding minimum standards as indicated by the users themselves. The most significant improvements can be seen in the Library as Place category, confirming the success of the library extension project.

2.6 Supporting Student Orientation
A total of 2,017 first year and international students attended Library orientation, an increase of 12% on the previous reporting period (1,771) reflecting the ongoing growth in students attending Maynooth University.

2.7 Integrated Learning Initiative (ILI)
The Library is actively involved in the Integrated Learning Initiative, a pilot scheme to offer higher education opportunities to people with intellectual disability that have been educationally disadvantaged. Participants are registered as occasional students and their work is based on flexible accreditation. The support facilitator devised, in consultation with the Library, a programme of eight one-hour library training sessions, for the five students participating in this initiative. These are delivered by a member of library staff.

2.8 Library Information Skills Tutorials (LIST)
LIST continues to be popular with staff and students. Library topics – delivered by library staff – include sourcing information, citing and referencing and plagiarism. Additional sessions are delivered by other university departments including essay writing skills, using Moodle (VLE), how to write a CV and dealing with stress. 1,372 students attended LIST sessions in the reporting period, a slight increase on the previous period.

2.9 Information Literacy Sessions
Numbers participating in training sessions outside of LIST increased by 17% from 2,450 in the previous period to 2,871. This relates to both postgraduates and undergraduate training.

2.10 Subject Support
In the reporting period, subject librarians dealt with 778 queries. While this is a decrease on the previous year’s figure of 999, the designation of one member of the team as Research Support Librarian (see below), brings the total to 979, a very similar figure to the previous reporting period. Moreover, the subject librarian team experienced a spike in demand for assistance during the construction of the new extension. The construction project resulted in a dedicated consultation room where Subject Librarians can meet with library users.

2.11 LibGuides
The Library launched LibGuides in September 2014. These are electronic guides to promote our resources for each major discipline area. There are plans to further exploit the potential of LibGuides and use them for other marketing and promotional purposes. The Library has created and published 41 guides to date.
2.12 Social Media

The Library continued to have an active social media presence. Twitter followers rose by 45% from 1,390 to 2,019, while Facebook followers increased by 6.5% from 3,382 to 3,604.

16 Flickr photo albums were created during the period with 3,417 views. Following onsite training course Using Multimedia Tools to Present Information several promotional videos were created using Animoto and Powtoon software. 10 new YouTube Videos were created and have been viewed 2,918 times.

The Library was represented on the university website steering group and the new library website went live in September 2014.

2.13 Book Collections

3,576 print books were purchased, representing a small decrease (1%) from the previous reporting period (3,692). In addition 3,700 items from Froebel College were integrated into the print collection. The number of ebooks available rose by more than 15,000 from 552,355 to 567,882, with 877,608 ebook section downloads. 9,646 items were added to the library catalogue.
3 FACILITATING AND ENRICHING RESEARCH

3.1 Research Support Librarian
In response to an identified need for dedicated research support Maynooth University, in autumn 2013 the Library reallocated subject responsibility portfolios to enable the creation of a new role dedicated to supporting the needs of researchers. The Research Support Librarian works closely with the Research Office, Graduate Studies Office, International Office and Research Institutes to provide a specialised service for researchers advising on the following areas:

- Bibliometrics, researcher impact and citation tracking
- Alt Metrics and Academic Networks
- Advanced searching
- Reference management

These services are provided via research consultations with postgraduate students and staff and in training sessions. The Research Support Librarian held 201 consultations in the reporting period – the first year operational. Most of these started with enquiries and led to individual training sessions of about 90 minutes.

There are plans for the Research Support Librarian to explore methods of managing, describing, preserving and making research data available and accessible to appropriate audiences in conjunction with other stakeholders within the Library and beyond. The development of this service will involved consultation with relevant University units including the Research Support Office.

3.2 Institutional Repository

The Library continues to work with academic colleagues to raise the University’s research profile. The ePrints and eTheses Institutional Repository now includes almost 4,800 items, with 1,215 items deposited during the reporting period. A major new development is the use of ePrints as a platform to host the recently established online “Journal of Mediation and Applied Conflict Analysis” http://kennedyinstitute.nuim.ie/journal-of-mediation-and-applied-conflict-analysis

Commenting on the initiative Kieran Doyle, Project Manager, Kennedy Institute for Conflict Resolution remarked:

“As a newly established institute, putting articles from our online journal on the ePrints repository has been very important for our development. Not alone did the system host our online journal to a global profile of 191 countries, but the joint project helped us to really appreciate our Library as an on-campus partner”

3.3 Electronic Collections

The Library has seen a sustained rise in its electronic collections as well as a notable increase in the number of searches carried out. The Irish Research eLibrary (IReL) consortia, now in its 11th year, continued to prove extremely valuable to the research community, with almost 238,000 searches executed on IReL databases, an increase of 240% on the previous reporting period (70,000).

Outside IReL, the Library purchased a number of key databases to support research including British and Irish Women’s Letters & Diaries, Classical World Online, Heritage of the Printed Book Book (CERL), Passport : Euromonitor International, Oxford Handbook Series in Music: Foundation; 2012 and 2013 Collections.

3.4 Digitisation
The Teresa Deevy Archive was digitised and an online exhibition using the open source content management software Omeka created. Following a review of options, it was decided to establish a local instance of the Digital Repository of Ireland (DRI). Working in collaboration with an Foras Feasa and the DRI, the Teresa Deevy material was uploaded to the pilot version of the DRI, making it the first Maynooth University collection in the DRI and one of the DRI’s demonstrator content collections. As part of a 3U project, the Library worked with colleagues in the Royal College of Surgeons Ireland (RCSI) and Dublin City University (DCU) on preparatory work for the development of a joint digital collection/exhibition. This is due to be launched in autumn 2015.

The Ken Saro-Wiwa audio archive, a joint initiative between the Library and Kairos Communications, was launched in November 2013. It includes interviews with people connected with Ken Saro-Wiwa, including his brother Dr Owens Wiwa, who came to Maynooth to launch the audio archive and the book “Silence Would be Treason: Last Writings of Ken Saro-Wiwa” (edited by Íde Corley, Helen Fallon and Laurence Cox) The audio-archive is freely available via the library website and extracts have been broadcast on Irish national radio and University of Ibadan radio.

Work is continuing on digitising the papers of the Irish College, Salamanca held in St Patrick College, Maynooth. The collection contains over 50,000 individual items.

3.5 Special Collections and Archive
The Library’s Unique and Distinctive Collections (UDCs) continue to be of the utmost importance in terms of research and education. Beyond this however they provide an invaluable asset in terms of promotion of services to, and beyond, the campus community. This was the first year of operation of the new Special Collections Service Point in the John Paul II Library and the service was used quite extensively.

In July 2014 new software was purchased for the archival collections, to streamline collection processing and collection management. Axiell CALM, a database designed for Museums and Archives, which is compliant with descriptive standards such as ISAD(G), is now in use by the service and has helped to speed up the processing of collections.

One of the highlights of the year was the acquisition of the papers of distinguished multilingual writer Pearse Hutchinson (1927-2012). It includes family papers and photographs, drafts of Hutchinson’s poetry, both published and unpublished, translations of the work of Catalan and Galician writers, correspondence, scripts for Hutchinson’s radio programme Óró Domhnaigh and his weekly magazine column Tagairt, which ran for twenty seven years. An international conference on Hutchinson is planned for 2015 in collaboration with the Department of English and Media Studies.

Another major development was the deposit, on long-term loan, of the Library of St. Canice’s Cathedral, in early 2014. The collection consists of approximately 3,600 printed works dating from the late fifteenth century onwards and five items of incunabula dating from 1483-1498.

Other new archives/special collections acquired during the reporting period include:

The Edward Baker Littlehales Archive:
This collection consists of the correspondence of Sir Edward Baker Littlehales (1764-1825), Private Secretary to Lord Cornwallis (Lord Lieutenant of Ireland) 1798-1801 and Under-Secretary at the Military Department, Dublin, 1801-1819.

The Ballindoolin Estate Archive:
This is the papers of the Bor and Tyrell families of Ballindoolin, County Kildare. The majority of this collection dates from the 19th and early 20th century and includes; correspondence, maps, diaries, estate rentals, legal documents, financial records and photographs.

The Glin Archive:
This archive was donated to the OPW-Maynooth University Archive and Research Centre at Castletown House, by the family of the late Desmond FitzGerald, the 29th and last Knight of Glin. It includes a comprehensive and insightful history of furniture, crystal, textiles and other artifacts from Ireland’s Great Houses.

John Sadleir Letters:
This series of letters from John Sadleir (1813-1856) M.P and banker to Michael Dunne M.P relates to parliamentary matters, the ‘Irish brigade’, his appointment to the Treasury and his defeat in the Carlow election.

The Wardell Archive:
The papers of this military family include correspondence from family members serving in Rangoon, Madras and Malta, as well as letters from George Vaughan Wardell, from Rork’s Drift, South Africa in 1879, and photographs, sketches and maps.

The Rorke Archive:
This collection of deeds – dating from 1822 to 1920 relates to Lawrence Rorke, of Neilstown House, County Dublin.

The Library is grateful to the collection owners and our colleagues in the Department of History and Centre for the Study of Historic Irish Houses and Estates for facilitating these developments.

3.6 OPW/Maynooth University Archive and Research Centre, Castletown
Culture Night was celebrated with an exhibition of the letters of Lady Louisa Connolly, which was very well attended by the public.
The catalogue of the Airfield Archive - the private papers of the extended Overend family and their house and farm named Airfield, in Dundrum in south Dublin was launched in October 2014.

3.7 Russell Library Cataloguing Project
The work of the Russell Library Cataloguing Project continued. Over 65% of the 30,000 items have now been catalogued.

3.8 Preservation Survey
In 2014 the Library undertook a Preservation and Access survey to assess the potential risks facing collections from their environment. The results were very positive with collections receiving a preservation risk profile where the majority of the collection falls into the ‘very low priority band’ i.e. not at risk with much of the remainder of the material surveyed being recorded in the ‘low preservation priority band’ i.e. very little risk. This is above sectoral norms and reflects the benefits of the new building and ongoing conservation and preservation activity.

3.9 Inter-Library Loan and access to other Libraries
While Inter-Library Loan services provide a vital service for material not available through the Library, the ongoing decrease in numbers of requests for items on inter-library loan reflects the growing strength of our electronic collections. During the reporting period 434 items were requested from other institutions, a decrease of 24% on the previous reporting period (568). Items lent to other libraries increased by 84% from 117 to 215.

Requests for ALCID cards – allowing access without borrowing to Irish university libraries – declined slightly (11%) from 315 to 279.
4 LIBRARY PROFILE AND AWARENESS

The profile of Maynooth University Library is higher than ever before, with national and international visitors and a diverse and varied range of exhibitions and events, made possible by our wonderful new building. Regular annual events such as the staff and student art exhibition and the reading of a Christmas Carol (with funds raised going to the MU Vincent De Paul Society) continue to be popular with the University and local community and the launch of the local community festival took place in the Library during the reporting period.

Some events were scheduled to coincide with conferences, others to showcase aspects of Maynooth University. Many, such as the launch of the book Silence Would be Treason: Last Writings of Ken Saro-Wiwa and the exhibition Roma: One People Many Lives were collaborations with academic departments and other groups.

The Library’s annual publications festival continued with the Faculty of Arts, Celtic Studies and Philosophy and St Patrick’s College Maynooth being the focus of the festival during the reporting period.

The Library continues to develop collaborations with external bodies: this included hosting a collaborative Teresa Brayton exhibition with Kildare County Library and Arts Service. The ongoing Maynooth College and World War I is collaboration between Maynooth University, St. Patrick’s College Maynooth and the Heritage Council.

Senior staff have visited US libraries and hosted return visits which have had many positive outcomes. Librarians from Louisiana University, University of North Carolina, Illinois Institute of Technology, Texas A&M University visited and links are being strengthened.

Internationally the Library is represented on major library-related groups and the editorial boards of leading journals.

Media coverage locally, nationally and internationally was extensive. For example the Ken Saro Wiwa book featured in media around the world in print, online and radio. Media coverage of the work of the library is listed in appendix IV.
5 LIBRARY ORGANISATION (FINANCE, TECHNOLOGY AND STAFFING)

5.1 Funding
The Library’s primary source of funding is the annual grant received from the University’s central resources. While the reporting period saw a welcome 1.7% increase from the previous year during the period 2010-2014 the grant received from the University was on average 16% less per annum than the grant received in 2007-2008. Crucially the link between increased student numbers and funding has now been broken. Moreover, other significant elements of library funding are declining. With income from photocopying and printing no longer coming directly into the Library budget the amount due to the Library has yet to be agreed. There is also an emerging pattern of reduced income from library fines as self-service lending and returning and other changes impact on user behaviour. Grant per user has declined by 37% between 2007 and 2014 from €122 to €77. Comparative data from other Irish institutions would suggest that the typical level of funding is currently circa €106 or 38% more per user. When the total cost of the service per user (including staff and other costs) is examined, the situation is, unsurprisingly, very similar. Over the same period the cost of the service per user declined from €403 to €262. The comparative figure for Irish institutions is €345. In other words, the cost per user of providing the library service is typically 44% more in other Irish institutions compared with MU.

The Library has sought to secure additional funding in a number of ways including:

- Collaboration with academic departments to fund the purchase of expensive resources: e.g. academic departments contributed towards the purchase of expensive resources including the funding of SciVal
- Co-funding events and exhibitions with University departments and SPCM
- Negotiation with donors of collections in an attempt to secure funds for the processing of the collections
- Securing small-scale funding under schemes such as the newly established National Forum for the Enhancement of Teaching and Learning, the Heritage Council, Kildare County Council and other bodies
- The establishment of a Library Strategic Acquisitions Group (LSAG)
- Some revenue from Alumni Membership
- Working with the Students’ Union on areas of mutual interest

5.2 Technology
The Library worked closely with the Computer Centre in the roll-out of the campus card (MyCard), and the access-control system in the new Library building was the focal point for MyCard troubleshooting in the first weeks of implementation.

Knowall Enquire, an enquiry tracking software package that gathers metrics and allows detailed data analysis, was introduced during the reporting period. This software allows queries to be captured and the process of answering recorded. It will also facilitate the generation of a comprehensive FAQ section for the library website. Users can send queries directly to Enquire via an online form on the library’s website.

The implementation and launch of the discovery tool Summon in 2014, branded locally as librarysearch, allows users to search approximately 94% of our collections simultaneously. This includes the library catalogue, the institutional repository multiple, databases, print finding aids and more. This, coupled with a more seamless off campus solution, means users can search library collections as easily on phone or tablet as on desktop PC. Extensive promotional/training is underway.

5.3 Staffing
The Library, as previously noted created from within existing resources the new role of Research Support Librarian to meet the needs of researchers at all stages of the research process. During the reporting period the University provided sustainable funding for the Facilities Team which staff the Library’s extensive opening hours and ensure the overall effectiveness of the Library. This excellent news will ensure that one of the key developments, better opening hours, has been secured for the long term. Finally, in August 2014 Senior Librarian Mary Delaney (Antonesa) was appointed the Institute Librarian at Carlow IT. While we were disappointed to see Mary leave, we wish her the very best in her new post. Mary played a key role in many innovations including the delivery of the new library building.
CONTRIBUTING TO SOCIAL, ECONOMIC AND CULTURAL DEVELOPMENT

Members of the local community are invited to attend events in the Library and the café and exhibition area is open to the public.

A viewing of the World War I exhibition in the Russell Library, with a morning of guest lectures, was a feature of the Adult Learning Festival 2014 and was shortlisted for the Grundtvig Award 2014 by the European Association for the Education of Adults (EAEA).

The Library continued to offer an information literacy course to Transition Year (TY) students from local secondary schools. Students are taught the basics of searching/researching, social media etiquette, planning assignments, the dangers of plagiarism, using and evaluating both online and print resources and searching library catalogues. The programme concludes with visits to the MU Library where the students receive certificates of completion and a tour of the Library.

A total of 1,262 school students visited the Library and had tours of the Library in 2013-2014. This service is part of a wider University initiative to encourage prospective students to choose to study at Maynooth University.

Structured work placements for TY students continued. Students gain experience in and contribute to a variety of library activities, attending library training sessions and staff development events. The Library also provides a comprehensive work experience training programme for graduates wishing to undertake postgraduate qualifications in Librarianship.

The Library continues to support travelling exhibitions which allow people, who may not have the opportunity to visit MU, experience something of the richness of library collections.

In March 2014 the Library loaned a travelling Teresa Deevy exhibition The Playwright Restored to Waterford City and County Libraries as part of ‘Waterford Writers Weekend’, with a member of library staff giving a presentation on the archive.

An exhibition of unpublished manuscripts, photographs and correspondence of Peadar Ó Laoghaire from the College Archives took place in Kerry during April 2014 as part of the Léachtaí Cholm Cille conference.

In keeping with library commitment to collaboration, library staff presented guest lectures on the postgraduate programmes offered by the School of Information and Library Studies (SILS) at University College Dublin (UCD) and the Dublin Business School (DBS). Senior library staff acted as externs on a number of interview boards. The Library hosted a seminar “The Librarian as Researcher” for library staff from university, public and special libraries, which was well received. The Library provided space and hospitality and helped organise a number of initiatives to support early career librarians.

Links with Sierra Leone and Liberia continued. The Library and the Department of Applied Social Studies raised €1,500 to buy protective clothing for healthcare workers and hosted a lunchtime talk by a lecturer in Immunology to highlight awareness of the Ebola issue in Sierra Leone and Liberia.
7 STAFF DEVELOPMENT AND SUPPORT

A number of staff received formal qualifications in a variety of areas including:

- Education Doctorate
- Associateship and Fellowship of the Library Association of Ireland
- Certificate in Managing and Understanding Rare Books
- FETAC level 5 certification in Leadership and First Aid Certificates

Staff presented papers and posters at local national and international conferences and published articles and book chapters. This activity is detailed in Appendix II.

Two members of staff won the Academic and National Library Training Co-operative (ANLTC) blogging contest.

Staff were active on committees of the Library Association of Ireland (LAI) and other professional bodies, holding key positions such as chair, secretary and treasurer.

A member of staff participated in the LAI one-day exchange, going to Stewart’s Care in Palmerstown to spend a day in the Library.

Library staff participated in the Syria Fundraiser 5K walk/run organised by the Columba Centre. €600.00 was raised for Trócaire’s work for the Syrian refugees.

Library staff took part in the annual Maynooth University Christmas Fun Run in aid of St. Vincent de Paul. The staff raised €150.00 for this charity.

The Library’s Staff Well Being initiatives continued including Walk On Wednesdays, Step Challenge and plans for Well Being event in December 2014 were prepared.
