

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY RESEARCH SEMINAR, 2023-2024 SEMESTER ONE

Time: 6.00pm -7.15pm
Venue: Room 1.33 Iontas Building

5 October

Darragh Gannon (UCD & Fulbright Irish Scholar at Georgetown University)

'A United Kingdom conflict: reframing the Irish Revolution'

The seminar will be followed by the launch of Darragh Gannon's monograph Conflict, Diaspora, and Empire: Irish nationalism in Britain, 1912-1922 (Cambridge University Press)

12 October

Oksana Vynnyk (Irish Research Council Postdoctoral Fellow at Maynooth University)

'War disability, welfare and State-building in the Polish Eastern Borderlands (1918-39)'

26 October

Aidan Enright (Leeds Beckett University)

"'a symbol of West Britonism in Ireland": the O'Connor Don and the culture and politics of liberal Catholicism and Catholic unionism, 1860-1906'

9 November

Martin D. Brown (Richmond American University London)

'The Bondian Cold War: An analysis in [00]7 hashtags'

16 November

Aisling Shalvey (Victims of brain research under National Socialism project)

"'Protect your Child, Trust the Doctor!' Paediatrics under National Socialism from research subject to named victim'

The seminar will be followed by the launch of Aisling Shalvey's monograph Paediatrics in the Reichsuniversität Straßburg: children's medicine at a Bastion of Nazi ideology (Exeter University Press)

23 November

Catrina Kennedy (University of York)

'Jonathan Swift and his servants: a history of eighteenth-century Ireland from below stairs'

30 November

Róisín Higgins (Maynooth University)

"'I don't remember the exact words, but I remember the tone': writing a history of the sights, sounds and subtleties of the Troubles'

7 December

Tim Murtagh (Beyond 2022 Project)

'Empire of Information: the lost records of the Irish Chief Secretary's Office, 1760-1830'

Seminar Convenor: Professor Marian Lyons, Department of History Marian.Lyons@mu.ie