Research Seminar Series 2018-2019

‘Careers of Under-Explored Populations: My Academic Research ‘Career Journey’ – Past, Present & Future’

Dr Marian Crowley-Henry

Date: Wednesday, 19 December 2018

Time: 12:00pm

Venue: SE128 School of Education

Paper Abstract

The seminar shares Marian’s evolving research interest in careers, career journeys and career narratives over time and space, from her Masters by Research to her PhD and post-PhD work.

The objective of the seminar is to give an overview of Marian’s research interests in order to develop awareness of her research among the attendees, so as to stimulate the potential for knowledge sharing and future research collaborations.

As a constructivist, interpretive phenomenologist, her research focuses on unpacking the themes and meanings from individual career narratives.

Marian will also share her recent research projects / collaborations, at Fulbright, EU and international levels.
